Polly's Pointers

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I had the same problem as the lady with arthritis who has trouble shaking hands. I find that extending both my hands to the other person allows me to take hold of the other person's hand on both sides and I can then guide the handshake without showing any pain and it seems to be an even warmer greeting. The reader who takes water to bed with her at night and invariably spills it might try my plan. I take medication at night and therefore have to have water by my bed, so I set a small thermos in the top drawer of my bedside table (Polly's note — I am sure the drawer is left open.) My thermos has a handle which makes it easy to hold and a lid that keeps the water clean. If one does not have a nightstand such a thermos could be placed on the floor by the bed. — JO

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with angel food cake pans that do not have handles so they can be flipped, with less difficulty, over on a bottle or funnel for the cooling period after baking such a cake. — MRS. N.L.

DEAR POLLY — To allow for shrinkage in the legs of new slacks or jeans purchase a longer length and use ordinary transparent plastic adhesive tape to hem legs. When time comes to wash the jeans, remove the tape and wash as usual. This prevents the leg dragging on the ground and yet allows for shrinkage. — MRS. A.F.B.

POLLY'S PROBLEM — The foambacked, room-size rug in our living room has gotten quite soiled as we have three children and a puppy. I would like to know how to clean this carpet without hurting the foam backing. Is it possible to take the rug outdoors and clean it with the hose? — KARYL

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems . . .

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Are you going to deal with this problem in print and help thousands of young people who don't know what to do or where to turn? Or will you play it safe and duck it? We'll see.

The problem is young girls who are molested by their fathers and stepfathers. What if a girl tells her mother and then the mother doesn't believe it? Or worse yet, what if the mother knows it's true but is afraid to say anything?

Too often the family feels sorry for the old man because he's an alcoholic and gets drunk and doesn't know what he's doing. Or maybe he's mentally "unbalanced," which is supposed to make it "not his fault."

Drunk or sober, insane or not, rich or poor, what do you think ought to be done about these men? And what should be done about mothers who know what's going on but protect the molester at the expense of the child? Someone like you should deal with this hideous problem. How about it? — TRUSTING YOU

DEAR TRUSTING: I HAVE dealt with this problem — many times — and I will continue to do so. First, not every girl who complains is telling the truth. Some are indulging in fantasies and others are seductive little scoundrels in competition with their mothers.

My advice is the same to all girls who are bothered by a dirty old man — be it father, stepdad, older brother, cousin, a "funny uncle," neighbor, etc.: Here it is again: Tell him if he ever comes near you again that you will tell your mother. But you must MEAN it. If your mother refuses to get him a counselor and he continues to bother you, go to an aunt, a teacher, a minister, a doctor, anyone who will listen. If you REALLY don't want a lecherous male who is unquestionably sick in the head to molest you, you CAN see to it that he doesn't.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was disgusted with that letter from Omaha. I always thought you saw the kid's point of view but maybe I was wrong. You found room in your column for that anti-teen blast. I hope you can find room for my letter.

Always we hear plaintive cries of parents? "Why don't you earn some money? Get off our backs. Make yourself useful." I would like to offer some suggestions to these same adults who seem to know lots of ways teens can improve themselves.

Instead of asking us to do so many things, why don't YOU remove the storm windows, rake the leaves, shovel the snow, learn how to cook, scrub the floors, read to a blind person or tutor a handicapped child?

Instead of thinking up "constructive activities" for teenagers, why don't you stay home once in a while and bake something, cook something or sew something? Get off the phone. Pass up a bridge game. And when you get through with your housework and responsibilities to your family, you can go to the nearest park and pick up the litter. It will be good for your waistline. Most of you are too darned fat. — ADVICE FROM A TEENAGER IN PORTLAND

DEAR TEENAGER: Here's your letter and I trust you there is a lot of truth in it. Especially your last sentence.

THANK YOU

I wish to thank all my friends and relatives who sent me cards, get well messages and flowers while I was a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital in Marshfield. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.
